

Angela Qu

Chief Supply Chain Officer

Angela Qu is an executive with over 25 years of experience in manufacturing, supply chain, procurement and management consulting. She has held senior executive roles in large corporations in the industries of energy, electronics, electrification, transport logistics and aviation.

She holds an MBA in Supply Chain Management from ETH Zurich, Switzerland.

From 1994 to 2003, Angela Qu supported Siemens in establishing greenfield manufacturing sites in China and led in-house consulting services specialised in value chain design, sourcing strategies, logistics, and operational excellence. From 2004 to 2005, she headed global sourcing at Leybold Optics, a leading supplier of thin-film vacuum coating technology, which was subsequently acquired by Bühler Group.

In 2005, Angela Qu joined ABB and worked in Germany and Switzerland with increasing responsibilities. She led transformation projects and built ABB group supply chain excellence in terms of organisation, processes and people development. She led global supply chain management teams, serving multiple manufacturing locations and service units.

In 2019 she was appointed Chief Procurement Officer of Lufthansa Group, a role in which she served until April 2022. She was also a member of the Supervisory Board of Lufthansa Cargo until March 2022. Currently, she is an independent Board Director for Gurin Energy and DANX Carousel and a member of the Board of Trustees at the Chartered Institute of Procurement & Supply.

Currently, Angela Qu is Chief Supply Chain Officer at Iveco Group.
